Our Instructors

Musical Expressions values the potential of every individual to engage their musical abilities. Regardless of age or ability level, music is a gift that is acquired through time, yet lasts a lifetime. Musical Expressions instructors aim to use the power and benefits of music and personalize it with the experiences and knowledge of each individual.

Andrea Chang, a graduate of UBC, has completed all grade 10 requirements in piano and music theory and Royal Conservatory of Music, ARCT Certification in Elementary & Intermediate Pedagogy, has over 10 years of teaching experience. Her goal is to convey her lifelong appreciation of music to her students of all ages.

Gina McLellan Morel has performed extensively locally and internationally, most notably with the Vancouver Opera, Bard on the Beach, Prince George Symphony and the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra. Gina teaches a wide variety of styles, including musical theatre, opera and contemporary, emphasizing healthy vocal technique and performance practices.

Andrea Minden, BMus, flutist, sound instrumentalist and teacher who graduated from the UBC School of Music. Andrea is a well-known Vancouver musician and teacher and welcomes new students. For more information, visit <https://andreaminden.wordpress.com>.

Roy Sun has taught for over 10 years and his students take part in numerous festivals and examinations. He is a concert pianist, competitor and teacher who has his ARCT from the Royal Conservatory of Music, a diploma from the London College of Music examinations in Piano Performance and a Bachelor of Music (Piano) degree from UBC. Highlights include competing in the National Music Festival of BC, representing the province of BC.

Chris Wright will focus on expressing creativity through music. He teaches acoustic, classical and electric guitar. Chris teaches how to play and construct songs, chords and melodies, music theory, scales, technique, reading music, beat and rhythm, tuning, maintenance and re-stringing.

Jin Kim started playing piano at 6 years of age, and she received grade 9 level piano and music theory from the Royal Conservatory of Music when she was 14 years old. She began her teaching career helping young students learn basic music theory and interpreting music. Jin is now studying piano and music education at the University of British Columbia. Her lessons can be taught in Korean and English.
